

Bonelli Tosses Harpoon at MTA

In an apparent attempt to blunt the Metropolitan Transit Authority's drive for a property tax of up to 15 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, Supervisor Frank G. Bonelli has proposed double-decking present freeways.

The top level would be a toll road.

Bonelli said there would be no added tax burden upon "overburdened county taxpayers" since the upper level would be self-supporting, the tolls retiring revenue bonds to pay the cost.

"The large cost of freeway construction is in buying rights-of-way and building grade separations," said Bonelli.

"In addition, there is a great loss of assessed property removed from the tax roll. By double-decking freeways," added Bonelli, "there would be no additional right-of-way cost."

Bonelli says it is reported that double-decking could be done without halting traffic on the freeways.

Then, he made his thrust at mass rapid transit.

"There appears," he declared, "to be grave doubt in the minds of many that mass transportation ever can be economically a success, which would mean a growing subsidy of that transportation by more taxpayers."

"There is no assurance that people will stop using their autos," he added. "The switch to full use of mass transportation is remote."

Stained clothing, upholstery, carpets, and table linens often are unhappy results of holiday festivities. Used properly, two general stain removers — Chlorine bleach and cleaning fluid — are helpful.

Highway-user taxes collected by state governments are expected to total about $5.8 billion for the year 1962, an increase of about 4.2 percent over the $5.5 billion collected in 1961.
